

As a mother of three young children, I do not appreciate my phone ringing at all times with nonsense sales pitches as my children nap in the day or sleep in the night. I try to be polite to these telemarketers, but at times my patients run low - and they in turn become quiet defensive. If I want someone to call me - I'll give them my number. If I haven't offered you my number - then, don't call me. We should all respect one another's privacy. Interrupting my homelife is an invasion of my privacy.
